

Cancellation Policy

If you need to cancel your appointment please give as much notice as possible. If you cancel your appointment with less than 24 hours notice I request you honor our agreement and my time with full payment.

Consent

Lynn Rey takes client privacy very seriously. Only information required for booking services is gathered. Your personal information, which is voluntarily submitted by you, is not disclosed with 3rd party or other private or commercial institutions without your consent unless lawfully required.

As per the privacy policy all client information, including, but not limited to information at time of booking as well as information disclosed during the session is considered private and confidential and will not be shared, distributed or disclosed without clients written consent.

Post session Lynn Rey does not have control over if or how you handle or alter your future path after receiving new information disclosed by Lynn Rey. You as the client are entirely liable for how you apply information received from Lynn Rey.

For a number of reasons, including legal and post session actions by a client, the Turtle Matrix site and services offered should be considered for entertainment purposes only.

By booking an appointment with Lynn Rey, you release her of any and all liability related to the content shared within the session. Lynn Rey is a communication channel and does not filter, alter or withhold information, which comes forward. At times this information can be highly confidential and sensitive to a client. By proceeding with your appointment with Lynn Rey you agree to release her from all liabilities, legal claims and expenses that may result both directly and indirectly from services performed by Lynn Rey

Lynn Rey is not in a position to provide legal or medical advice and therefore should not be considered as a replacement, advisory or consultant for someone in these professions. If as a result of your session you feel the need for such services we recommend you contact a qualified person in these professions.